United States Attorney Deborah R. Gilg announced that Jay Golden, 60, of Omaha, Nebraska, was sentenced in Omaha, Nebraska on July 25, 2011, to 72 months in prison by Senior United States District Judge Lyle E. Strom for his conviction for receipt and distribution of child pornography. In addition to his prison term, Golden will serve five years of supervised release following his release from prison.

On March 10, 2010, the National Center for Missing and Exploited Children received a report from America Online (AOL) that Golden had attempted to send an email containing an image of child pornography. On June 4, 2010, members of the FBI Cyber Crimes Task Force and the Douglas County Sheriff's Office executed a search warrant at Golden's residence in Omaha, Nebraska. A forensic analysis of Campbell's computer revealed 250 videos and 6,000 still images of child pornography. The videos and images involved were depictions of sadistic/masochistic conduct, bondage, and torture.

This case was brought as part of Project Safe Childhood, a nationwide initiative to combat the growing epidemic of child sexual exploitation and abuse launched in May 2006 by the Department of Justice. Led by United States Attorneys' Offices and the Criminal Division's Child Exploitation and Obscenity Section (CEOS), Project Safe Childhood marshals federal, state and local resources to better locate, apprehend and prosecute individuals who exploit children via the Internet, as well as to identify and rescue victims. This matter was investigated by the Omaha FBI's Cyber Crimes Task Force (CCTF), of which the Douglas County Sheriff's Office, is a partner. The Omaha CCTF is a multi-jurisdictional task force consisting of eleven federal, state and local law enforcement agencies from Nebraska and Iowa. The mission of the Omaha CCTF is to investigate and apprehend high technology criminals and to protect our communities by preventing high technology crime and national security threats involving computers and computer networks. The Omaha CCTF was established on the premise that the capabilities of law enforcement agencies to investigate computer and high technology related crimes are enhanced in a task force setting involving the sharing of resources and expertise.
